An electronic version of the Health Ethics Guide is now available for Kindle for $10.14 from Amazon; The FREE Kindle reading application can be downloaded for Android phone or tablet, iPad, iPhone, Mac, Windows 8 PC or tablet, BlackBerry, or Windows Phone and is available here. The Kobo version of the Guide is available for $9.61. The Apple version is coming soon.

When the Joint Leadership Council met in Cornwall in October, Sister Nuala Kenny advised the group that directors/trustees and staff of catholic healthcare facilities should take the time to read as much as possible about the Principle of Cooperation as it effects integration and partnerships between our services and those of non-faith based services. Most of our facilities already integrate services and work jointly with non-faith based facilities. These relationships are opportunities to establish more efficient and mutually beneficial partnerships, so it is important that we understand the moral principles governing cooperation.

This edition of the Guide is meant to provide guidance in light of new advances in science and medicine. It seeks to firmly ground the guide in the Gospel message. Moreover, it incorporates a more fully articulated vision of the social nature of health care along with the values and principles that are embedded in the Gospel.

The Health Ethics Guide:

- underlines the fundamental commitment within the Catholic tradition to the ministry of caring for those who are sick and suffering;
- articulates the values and principles that provide guidelines for ethical decision making; and
- promotes a pastoral understanding of how these principles and values can guide decision making in health and social services.

XXI Annual World Day of the Sick:

Since 1992, the Catholic Church has celebrated World Day of the Sick on Feb. 11 — the day on which the church commemorates the feast of Our Lady of Lourdes — under the sponsorship of the Pontifical Council for Health Pastoral Care.

World Day of the Sick has three consistent themes: First, it reminds the faithful to pray intensely and sincerely for those who are sick. Second, the celebration invites Christians to reflect on and respond to human suffering. And third, this day recognizes and honors all persons who work in health care and serve as caregivers.

Lord, grant your healing grace to all who are sick, injured or disabled, that they may be made whole.

Grant to all who through illness are lonely, anxious or despondent, an awareness of your loving presence.

Restore those who are in mental distress to soundness of mind and serenity of spirit.

Bless physicians, nurses and all others who minister to those suffering, granting them wisdom, skill, sympathy and patience.

Grant all who serve in the ministry of health care confidence, energy and courage to do the work to which they have been called.

Help them to be models of encouragement so that others do not lose hope.

Lord, God of All Compassion, hear our prayer and help us to live day by day with active concern, like that of the Good Samaritan, for those suffering in body and spirit whom we are called to serve, whether or not we know them and however poor they may be. Through the intercession of Mary, Our Lady of Lourdes and Our Lady of Graces, we pray. Amen.

In this year's Papal message, Pope Benedict XVI calls on everyone to be a good Samaritan and concretely help those in need. Thanking those who care for the sick and elderly, the pope underlines the church's fundamental role in "lovingly and generously accepting every human being, especially those who are weak and sick."

This prayer card (above) was made available by CHAUS (English only) and can be used at your facility. Click on the card to see a larger version that can be printed two to page on 8½ X 11 paper. We've also enclosed a copy of the liturgy from the CHAUS website, (English only), accessible at www.chausa.org. Their website also has a video reflection that you can access.

Catholic Health International has sent a package to each of its member facilities. The package includes this year's Papal Message, posters, bookmarks and prayer cards in both languages and prepared by Centre de Pastorale de la Sante. Click here to read a Reflection on the Confidence theme. We have also provided a copy of their liturgy, (French only).
